Company Announcement

Voluntary Recall of Nufarm Australia ‘Spin Flo’ Product

Nufarm Australia advises that effective immediately all batches of Spin Flo manufactured prior to August 2017 are voluntarily recalled.

This product passed initial inspections, however, it has since been discovered that over time the viscosity of the product has increased and may present usability challenges.

Spin Flo used in accordance with label directions presents no change to crop or personal risk. This issue relates to the physical aspects of the product, efficacy is not impacted.

Growers that have this product on hand are requested to return it to their place of purchase.

As per standard Nufarm practice the APVMA is supervising this recall under voluntary recall procedures.

Nufarm Australia will proactively communicate this voluntary recall in conjunction with the APVMA using channels including the Nufarm Australia website, direct communication with distribution customers and growers. The company will also inform relevant industry groups and request this message be cascaded to their members.

The Company takes all quality issues very seriously and apologises for any inconvenience caused.
